

Villa Upper Floor — Terrace 3 & Rooftop Bar — AI Design Prompt

Photorealistic architectural visualization of the upper-floor terrace, continuing the design language of the ground-floor pool terrace below.

Layout & Space Planning

- Terrace dimensions: 8.90m x 4.10m, adjacent to the upper living/dining area and Master Bedroom.
- This terrace sits directly above the ground-floor pool terrace — design the layout so the rooftop bar and seating are positioned to overlook the plunge pool below, with an open, unobstructed sightline down toward the pool (e.g., via a glass balustrade or open-edge design rather than solid railings).
- Zone the space into two connected areas:
 - Rooftop bar: a compact built-in bar counter with a microcement finish, matching the resin/microcement tones used on the ground floor, including a small back-bar shelving/storage unit and 2–3 bar stools.

- Cozy lounge seating area: a comfortable, low-slung outdoor sofa/daybed cluster with soft cushions, a low coffee table, positioned to take advantage of the pool view below and the open sky above.
- Ensure a smooth, natural flow between the bar and lounge zones — no awkward pinch points, circulation width of at least 1.0–1.2m maintained throughout.
- Important: the space currently shown in front of the Master Bedroom is being reclaimed to enlarge the Master Bedroom's interior footprint — do NOT include this area as part of Terrace 3; treat the terrace boundary as starting from the Master Bedroom's new (reduced) exterior wall line.

Materials

- Flooring & bar counter: seamless microcement finish, matching the warm sand/greige tone from the ground-floor terrace for full material continuity top to bottom.
- Walls/backdrop (where present): same mud-plaster tadelakt finish with a natural Roman travertine look as the ground floor, carried upward for visual consistency.

- Seating: natural woven textures (rope, rattan, or teak frames) with plush neutral-toned cushions (ivory, sand, warm taupe) for a relaxed, resort-style comfort.
- Planting: minimal, curated planting in built-in microcement planters — olive trees or tall grasses at the perimeter to soften the edge without blocking the pool view.

Lighting

- Warm pendant or hanging lantern-style lighting over the bar counter.
- Low ambient lighting within the lounge seating (e.g., built-in bench lighting or low lanterns) for an intimate evening mood.
- Uplighting on any travertine-textured walls to maintain the layered, warm-toned lighting language from the ground floor.
- Subtle edge lighting along the open overlook edge (glass balustrade or terrace lip) so the pool below is visible and glowing at night, reinforcing the vertical connection between the two terraces.

Style & Mood

- Continuation of the modern Mediterranean / boutique resort aesthetic from the ground floor — same material palette, same warm minimalist restraint.
- The space should feel like a natural upward extension of the pool terrace: same tones, same materials, same lighting warmth — just elevated, airier, and framed by open sky.

Camera Angle

- Wide shot from the rooftop bar/lounge area looking down and across toward the pool terrace below, capturing the vertical relationship between the two levels, at dusk to showcase the lighting design on both floors simultaneously.
